President's Message

This has obviously been a challenging year for all of us, particularly for firms and architects that have been impacted financially by the pandemic. Our NC Board of Architecture has continued to operate successfully, as well as make a move to our new location in downtown Raleigh.

As you may know, each year the Board holds a New Architect Luncheon. Much like every in person event, the luncheon was cancelled, however, we were able to hold our first ever virtual New Architect Luncheon via Zoom. It was quite a success. A summary of the Board presentation is as follows:

Purpose of the Board

The NC Legislature established the North Carolina Board of Architecture in 1915 to ensure the protection of the life, health and safety of the public.

Seven members are appointed to NCBA by the Governor. Five are architects and two are 'public.' The architect members serve five year terms; public members serve at the pleasure of the governor.

Basic functions of the Board are:

Legislative – Rules are created and adopted

Executive – Business and enforcement activities take place daily, fees are collected, continuing education is required, Intern Development is monitored, the Architectural Registration Exam is administered and investigations of rule violations are conducted Judicial – declaratory rulings are issued and sanctions are made.

The State of NC is fortunate when it comes to licensing Boards; we are autonomous and not buried in a sprawling state agency. Continued on pg 3

Role of the Board member:

One of the best ways to participate in our democracy is by serving on a state board, commission or committee. Board members provide expert knowledge, advice and recommendations concerning several areas:

Licensure standards; curricula of schools; education and experience qualifications of licensure applicants; standards for professional and industry practice, competence and conduct; vigorous enforcement of these standards; disciplinary hearing process for violation of professional licensing laws or rules by licensees; revisions to the rules and regulations necessary to carry out the provisions of the professional licensing act.

Committees of the Board

In order to conduct the business of the Board more efficiently, much of the work is done via committees with a staff liaison. The active committees of the Board are:

Licensure

The licensure committee includes Applications, CE, and Outreach

Some of the charges include:

Receive and review applications for licensure in NC as requested by the Executive Director. Make recommendations for each applicant for Board consideration/disposition. Promote the Rules of the NC Board of Architecture regarding Continuing Education requirements for architects. Monitor Continuing Education compliance of licensees. Promote the Rules, Laws and Purpose of the NC Board of Architecture (contacting students, IDP/ARE candidates, educators, and licensees). Attend, present, and speak at AIA meetings/functions and architecture schools throughout the state.

Judicial/Professional Standards

Review complaints received by the Board of Architecture

Consult with Board's legal consultant regarding complaints

Enforce and promote the Rules of the NC Board of Architecture regarding Professional Standards of Architects.

The Board also has an Operations Committee that assists staff with personnel, budget and other miscellaneous items that may come up. When necessary a Rules/Legislation Committee is activated. This typically happens when the need for rule amendments arises.

Fred Dodson – Public Member The Purpose of the Public Member

The public members on a board or commission are there to express and be watchful of the public interest, not the interest of the professional occupation. Public members are not expected to be and are not supposed to be technically expert or experienced in the area of law or profession which they oversee. Some benefits of the public member are:

Reduces the potential for decisions that favor architect over the public.

Reduces the potential for decisions which favors one group of the architecture/profession over another.

Enables public participation in governmental decision-making.

Augments public confidence and trust in the regulatory entity.

Expands the range of skills, talent, training, and perspectives available for higher quality and more creative action.

Enhances credibility respecting decisions and public advocacy.

Sincerely,

Katherine Peele, FAIA

President, NC Board of Architecture
